

River Sal stinks of government apathy, rues HC petitioner

Says contamination of tributaries and fields is testing farmers' patience; pins hopes on High Court

Team Herald

MARGAO: As the High Court hearing approaches on Tuesday regarding the ongoing Public Interest Litigation (PIL) concerning the discharge of sewage and waste into Margao's storm water drains, which ultimately pollutes the River Sal and nearby bodies like Salpem Lake in Navelim, petitioner Professor Antonio Alvares continues to emphasize that much more needs to be done to resolve the issue permanently.

Despite the Goa State Pollution Control Board (GSPCB) sealing several establishments in Margao, Alvares points out that significant challenges remain.

"The water flowing into the nullah remains as polluted as ever. It's testing the patience of the farmers. The Municipal Council has shown little urgency in addressing this problem. Neither the State Government, Water Resources Department (WRD), Public Works Department (PWD), Health Department, Margao Municipal Council (MMC), nor the GSPCB seem to understand the distinction between a gutter and a nullah, which should only carry rainwater. The sewage network, on the other hand, is connected to the Sewerage Treatment Plant (STP). Storm water nullahs should not carry any waste, including dirty water. Unfortunately, local authorities seem indifferent as long as the sewage continues to flow into Navelim fields and the River Sal," Alvares stated.

He also highlighted the improper disposal of waste, including chicken, beef, mutton, and pork waste from the SGP-DA market. "The MMC doesn't collect this waste, and it can be seen floating in the River Sal near Khareband," he alleged.

Incidentally, Alvares is also the leader of the Navelim farmers group that have faced challenges due to the sewage contamination of the fields in Navelim village.

PORTS MIN DENIES PLANS FOR JETTIES ON RIVER SAL

MARGAO: Amid growing concerns over proposed jetties on the Sal River, Ports Minister Alexio Sequeira categorically denied any government plans for such projects. He stated that there was no proposal with the government to construct even a single jetty on the Sal, dismissing allegations raised by Congress functionaries. Sequeira questioned how Congress had arrived at the conclusion that jetties were being planned for the river.

The minister's remarks came after the Benaulim Congress block committee submitted a petition to South Goa MP Viriato Fernandes, voicing concerns over alleged plans to construct three additional jetties on the river. Congress cited announcements made by the Inland Waterways Development Council (IWDC), which listed waterway projects across India, including river Sal. Local fishing communities from Benaulim, Navelim, and Velim have raised alarms about the potential environmental fallout of such developments, particularly fears of coal transportation through the proposed jetties. The petition highlighted the importance of river Sal for traditional fishing activities, with major fish unloading centres at Cutbona and Mobor. South Goa District Congress President Savio D'Silva has announced plans to escalate the matter at gram sabhas of riverside panchayats. He pointed out the river's existing pollution issues, including high E. coli levels due to sewage discharge, and argued that additional industrial activity could further threaten the fragile ecosystem and local livelihoods. Despite Sequeira's denial, Congress has insisted on transparency regarding the IWDC's announced plans and their potential implications for the river.

Common man feels the pinch as coconut prices soar due to shortage

Smaller coconuts are now priced at Rs 25, up from Rs 15, while bigger nuts are sold at Rs 35 to 45

Team Herald

PONDA: Coconut prices in Goa have surged significantly over the past month, with rates increasing by Rs 10 to Rs 15 per coconut. While those with higher incomes may weather the price hike, daily wage earners and economically vulnerable sections are struggling to adapt. The essential role of coconuts in Goan kitchens leaves families with little alternative, forcing them to restrict their usage.

Local vendors at the Ponda Agricultural Market report that reduced imports from other states and delayed rainfall have exacerbated the situation. According to farmers, issues such as mite diseases and changing weather patterns may impact production.

For homemakers like Nayan Naik from Ponda, the price surge has disrupted household budgets. "The government needs to address the reasons behind reduced production, control prices, and encourage local youth to plant more coconut trees. Over-reliance on government jobs and increasing construction activity are leading to a decline in tree planting," she said.

Coconut pluckers also cite challenges such as diseases like mite infestation, which have caused tree deaths. One coconut plucker alleged that the proliferation of mobile towers in rural areas might contribute to the issue, although this remains unproven.

Vishal Fadte, another local, suggested that importing coconuts from other States could be a viable solution to stabilize prices.

Guv: Unfortunate that some leaders criticise Constitution during visits abroad

Team Herald

PANJIM: Governor P S Sreedharan Pillai on Sunday said that it was unfortunate that some of our leaders from the country were criticising the Constitution during their foreign visits.

The Governor made the statement in his Republic Day address at the Goa University ground at Taleigao.

"On the 76th birthday of our Constitution, we are in a better position as everybody has accepted the Indian Constitution. At the same time, it is unfortunate that there are leaders, I'm not mentioning the names who are going to other countries and criticising the Constitution," the Governor said and added that in politics, there are different views and the ruling party should accept and respect the Opposition.

"Right to differ is the basis of democracy but a leader or somebody else going to another country and criticising our setup here is unprecedented and unfortunate," the Governor said.

Batting for one-nation-one-election and uniform law in the country, the Governor praised Goa's successful implementation of Uniform Civil Code, encouraging other states to follow.

The Governor said the Constitution of the country is not just a legal document but a beacon of hope and a guide for the citizens.

"Our Constitution is not just a legal document but a living testament to the values of justice, liberty, equality, and fraternity. It is a beacon of hope and a guide for us to navigate the challenges of a modern and complex world," he stated.

The Governor, highlighting the achievement of the State government, said that the State Government has been doing a commendable job for the progress and development of Goa by providing infrastructure in the form of roads, railways, airports and bridges. Stating that Goa is one of the fastest growing States in the country and has been ranked to be the best amongst all the States in India in all categories, the Governor pointed out that due to the state being among the top three States in the country, the Eleventh Finance Commission has ranked its as the best placed state in the country in terms of infrastructure facilities.

On the occasion, the Governor inspected the parade and received the guard of honour.

Varca panchayat pays tributes to Dr Jack Sequeira on Republic Day

Team Herald

MARGAO: The Varca village panchayat, under the leadership of Acting Sarpanch Solon Furtado, paid a heartfelt tribute to Dr Jack Sequeira, widely recognized as the Father of the Opinion Poll, on the occasion of Republic Day. To honor his monumental contribution to Goa's history, the panchayat installed Dr Sequeira's portrait in the panchayat office.

Dr Jack Sequeira played a pivotal role in the historic Opinion Poll referendum that safeguarded Goa's unique identity and prevented its merger with Maharashtra. His vision and leadership ensured that Goa remained a distinct state, preserving its culture, heritage, and individuality.

Speaking on the occasion, Acting Sarpanch Solon Furtado emphasized the importance of Dr Sequeira's legacy, urging every panchayat in Goa to similarly honor his memory. He stated that Goa owes an immense debt to Dr Sequeira for his efforts in shaping its future and ensuring it retained its distinct character.

GIDC to tighten safety measures across Verna Industrial Estate

Team Herald

MARGAO: The recent fire at the Verna Industrial Estate, which destroyed around 40 cars, has spurred the Goa Industrial Development Corporation (GIDC) to tighten safety measures across the estate while also issuing closure notice to the unit in question. GIDC Chairman Aleixo Reginaldo Lourenco has directed all industries in the area to conduct a thorough review of safety protocols and ensure compliance to prevent similar incidents. He stressed the need to maintain clear surroundings and address fire hazards promptly, warning of strict action against defaulters.

Following the blaze,

GIDC took immediate action against the automobile service centre found in violation of safety regulations. Acting on a report that was submitted by its estate wing, GIDC revoked the service centre's occupancy certificate and ordered its operations to cease.

The estate wing's report revealed that vehicles awaiting servicing were parked in open spaces, disregarding prior directives from the Corporation. This negligence was identified as a major factor in the fire's rapid spread. GIDC Managing Director Pravin Abhishek confirmed, "We have issued show cause notices to the retailers for ignoring our earlier orders to remove the illegally parked vehicles. They have seven days to respond, after which further action will be initiated."

Abhishek emphasized that the operators' failure to comply with previous notices had serious consequences. "The occupancy certificate was revoked immediately after reviewing the report. The facility has since shut down operations, and the operators have complied," he stated.

The fire, which began in dry grass before spreading to parked vehicles, has highlighted the risks of unattended hazards. Lourenco disclosed that many of the affected vehicles had been left abandoned for two to three years, despite earlier notices to the company responsible. "We have taken action against them for their non-compliance," he said.
