Russia says Kyiv forces killed 22 people in occupied village

AFP, MOSCOW: Moscow accused Ukrainian troops on Friday of killing 22 people when they occupied a Russian village, including eight women who were allegedly raped before being executed. Ukraine has controlled dozens of border settlements in the Kursk region of western Russia since launching a surprise offensive in August, and says about 2,000 civilians still live in areas it occupies. Russia has now retaken several towns and villages. Russia's Investigative Committee said on January 19 it was investigating the killing of "at least seven civilians" in the village of Russkoye Porechnoye, about 20 kilometres (12 miles) from the Ukrainian border. The village has been retaken by Moscow.

RUSSIAN DRONE AND MISSILE ATTACKS KILL 5 IN UKRAINE AP, KYIV: At least five people died overnight as Russian drone and missile strikes pounded Ukraine's towns and cities, local officials said Saturday. Meanwhile, Moscow's troops continued their grinding advance through the country's east. A Russian missile strike on an apartment block in the Ukrainian city of Pottava killed at least four people and injured 10 more, Ukraine's emergency services reported. Some 21 people were rescued from the five-story building, which partially collapsed following the attack, said the Pottava region's acting governor, Volodymyr Kohut. Rescue teams remain at the site. The committee said on Friday it had expanded the probe and was now investigating the killing of "22 residents" between September and November. Among the victims, whose bodies were found in the basements of several homes, were eight women who were allegedly raped before being killed, the Investigative Committee said. AFP was not immediately able to verify the claims. A spokesman for Ukraine's military command in the Kursk region, Oleksiy Dmytrashkivsky, denied the allegations, telling AFP: "I emphasise that the Ukrainian armed forces are not fighting civilians."

Philadelphia air ambulance crash: 7 dead, 19 injured

AP, PHILADELPHIA: At least seven people were killed and 19 were injured when an air ambulance crashed into a busy Philadelphia intersection, officials said Saturday. The dead from Friday's accident include a child who was receiving treatment at a Philadelphia hospital and her mother. Mexican President Claudia Sheinbaum confirmed that all six of those on board the jet — including a child who had received medical treatment at a Philadelphia hospital — were killed. All the victims were from Mexico. In addition, one person on the ground who was in a car was killed and 19 others were injured in the crash, Philadelphia Mayor Chelle Parker said. The crash scene was a very large area with a lot of damage and authorities were working to assess the damage, said Adam Thiel, the city's managing director. Teams were going house to house inspecting the dwellings in the area to search for damage.

Taiwan bans govt agencies from using DeepSeek

AFP, TAIPEI: Taiwan has banned workers in the public sector and at key infrastructure facilities from using DeepSeek, saying it was a Chinese product and could endanger national security. DeepSeek launched its R1 chatbot last month, claiming it matches the capacity of artificial intelligence pace-setters in the United States for a fraction of the investment. Countries including South Korea, Ireland, France, Australia and Italy have raised questions about the Chinese AI start-up's data practices. Taiwan's Ministry of Digital Affairs said Friday all government agencies and critical infrastructure should not use DeepSeek because it "endangers national information security". "DeepSeek AI service is a Chinese product," the ministry said in a statement. "Its operation involves cross-border transmission and information leakage and other information security concerns." Taiwan has long accused China of using "grey zone" tactics - actions that fall short of an act of war - against the island, including cyberattacks, as Beijing presses its claims of sovereignty over the island.
