

T-Shirt Painting Competition on HIV/AIDS awareness

The Red Ribbon Club and the Counselling Cell of St Joseph Vaz College organized a T-Shirt Painting Competition on the theme 'Together for an AIDS-Free Future'. The event aimed to raise awareness about HIV/AIDS through creative expression, encouraging students to use art as a medium for advocacy. A total of 22 students participated in teams of two, forming 11 teams that beautifully translated the theme into their T-shirt designs. The competition commenced with participants given one and a half hour to complete their artwork. The judging panel included Dr Aureen Gomes, assistant professor in Microbiology, and Komal Gawade, assistant professor in Chemistry. The participants were evaluated based on creativity, originality, relevance to the theme, neatness in finishing, use of colors, and overall presentation.

Vishakha Bandivadekar and Anish Maurya secured first place, followed by Kshithij Naik and Fey Da Silva in second place. The third place resulted in a tie between Khushnuma Baig and Damini Rajput and Varad Parob and Kanak Shirodkar. Aroma Diniz, convener of the Red Ribbon Club, extended her heartfelt gratitude to all the participants for their enthusiasm and creativity.

Consular General of the Netherlands visits Goa College of Agriculture

Consular General of the Netherlands Nabil Taouati along with senior policy officer Priya Anil and senior consular officer Shweta Nabar, visited Goa College of Agriculture and interacted with teachers and students. Anil Noronha, from the Department of Agriculture, was present during the visit. College principal and Dean Dr Suresh Kunkalikar, received the delegates and engaged in insightful discussions about strengthening academic ties, particularly in student exchange programs for internships and higher studies. The delegation toured key facilities, including the construction site of the new college building, the seed processing unit, and the vermicompost unit. Dr Suresh provided a comprehensive overview of the campus and its initiatives.

Consular General stressed on exchange of students and teachers between Goa College of Agriculture and Universities in the Netherlands for higher studies, research and academic programs. He also talked about establishing joint projects on cultivation of crops, food processing and export of products to the Netherlands. He reviewed the performance of interns from HAS University of Applied Sciences who worked on projects at Goa College of Agriculture as part of MoU signed between these organisations. He appreciated teaching and research activities in the college and promised to again visit the college in future.

Final-year BSc (Hons) Agriculture students showcased their entrepreneurial projects developed under the experiential learning module. The display featured a variety of student-produced items, including Goan pickles, lassi, kulfis, ginger powder, vermicompost fertilizer, and fresh vegetables grown on campus. The delegates interacted with the students and expressed appreciation for their innovative approach and dedication to agricultural entrepreneurship.

The program concluded with a felicitation ceremony. The event was coordinated by Dr Krantidip, Er Vinod, Nikita, and a few final-year students.
