Hamas reports no progress in talks with Israel on ceasefire's second phase

PTI, CAIRO: The latest round of talks on the second phase of the ceasefire between Israel and Hamas has made no progress, and it's unclear whether they would resume on Saturday, a senior Hamas official said. Phase one expires on Saturday, but under the deal's terms, fighting should not resume while negotiations are underway on phase two, which could end the war in Gaza, see Israeli troops withdraw and see the remaining living hostages returned home. According to Israel, 32 of the 59 hostages still in Gaza are dead. The first phase, which paused 15 months of fighting in Gaza, saw the release of 33 hostages, including eight bodies, in exchange for nearly 2,000 Palestinian prisoners. Hundreds of thousands of people returned home to northern Gaza, aid into the territory increased and Israeli forces withdrew to buffer zones. Officials from Israel, Qatar, Egypt and the United States have been involved in negotiations on the second phase in Cairo. Hamas did not attend, but its position has been represented through Egyptian and Qatari mediators. Basem Naim, a member of Hamas' political bureau, told The Associated Press there had been no progress before Israeli negotiators returned home on Friday. It was unclear whether those mediators would return to Cairo to resume talks on Saturday as expected, and Naim said he had no idea when negotiations might resume. Hamas started the war with its October 7, 2023 attack that left 1,200 dead in Israel, mostly civilians, and took some 250 hostages. Since then, Israel's military offensive has killed more than 48,000 Palestinians.
