

Pilgrims struggle for parking as Kavlem tourism complex turns into dumping ground

Team Herald

PONDA: Pilgrims and tourists visiting the renowned Shantadurga Temple in Kavlem are facing severe hardships due to the lack of parking facilities. The only available open space, located in front of an old, dilapidated tourist hotel, has been converted into a dumping site, with heaps of construction debris and mud accumulating in the area.

The bypass road at Kavlem, which directly connects Dhavalim to the Farmagudi Highway, has also turned into a dumping ground. Due to its isolated location, unknown individuals have been discarding waste and mud at the site, further worsening the situation near the abandoned tourism complex.

Despite being one of India's most prominent pilgrimage destinations, the Shantadurga Temple and its

The 4,000-square-metre tourism complex, built in 1996, was originally intended to provide accommodation and amenities for visitors, including a hotel, dormitories, and toilet blocks. However, it has been lying abandoned for years. The restaurant within the complex has been shut for the past decade, while the dormitories were operational for only three years before being left in disrepair. Over time, the area has been overtaken by overgrown trees and bushes, making it difficult to even spot the structure.

With thousands of tourists and pilgrims visiting Kavlem annually, locals have long demanded that the site be converted into a parking facility. The Kavlem Panchayat has repeatedly urged the Tourism Department to either handover the abandoned project for local development or repurpose it into

6 years on, Collem Health Centre still incomplete

Villagers lash out at authorities for being insensitive to patients; say forced to travel for 30 kms to seek treatment

Team Herald

PONDA: Collem locals have urged the government to complete the long-delayed upgradation of the rural health centre, which has been under construction for the past six years.

Residents blasted the authorities for the indifferent attitude towards ailing patients and senior citizens who they said had to travel to distant places to seek treatment.

Vasudev Ganjekar, a local resident recalled that Chief Minister Pramod Sawant had promised last year that the project would be completed within three months. However, one year has passed, and there has been no significant progress. "Even for minor health issues, we are forced to travel 30 km to Pilem, Tisk-Usgao Hospital," he said.

According to the residents, the rural medical centre was initially established in Collem in 1984. Recognising the growing healthcare needs of the local population, the government laid the foundation stone for the hospital's upgradation in 2018. The event was attended by the late former Chief Minister Manohar Parrikar, along with Health Minister Vishwajit Rane, the then MLA and GSIDC chairman Deepak Prabhu Pauskar, and GSIDC chairman

"The completion of this hospital would benefit residents from the four panchayats in Dharbandora taluka: Sarcorda, Collem, Mollem, and Kallam. This facility is especially crucial for accident victims. If an accident occurs on the Mollem-Anmod route, patients must currently be transported for 30 kms to Pilem Usgao, which can be life-threatening," he explained.

Expressing his frustration, Shigaonkar warned that if the work is not completed soon, he is willing to organise a public demonstration. "If necessary, I am prepared to take to the streets along with the people to demand the hospital's completion. Even the poorest residents should have access to medical facilities in times of need," he stated.

He also mentioned that the local MLA had been requested to raise the issue in the Assembly, urging the government to act swiftly to complete the project and provide much-needed healthcare services to the region.

Despite the foundation stone being laid six years ago, the work remains incomplete. Govind Shigaonkar, Sarpanch of Collem-Shigao, expressed his concern over the delay, stating, "It has been six years, and the 10-bed hospital is still unfinished. The contractor is not responding to the panchayat, despite repeated demands from villagers in every gram sabha meeting for the hospital to be completed as soon as possible."

He stressed the importance of the hospital for the surrounding remote villages.

Margao police raid illegal scrapyard near indoor stadium

Team Herald

MARGAO: The Margao Town Police have taken action against an illegal scrapyard operating near the Manohar Parrikar Indoor Stadium in Khareband, Margao. According to a police press release, a complaint on behalf of the state was filed by Police Sub-Inspector (PSI) Nilesh Shirvoikar against Devappa Lamani, a resident of Shantinar, Margao, for the unauthorised collection and storage of scrap materials.

The scrapyard, located just meters away from the stadium and adjacent to its retaining wall, has reportedly been burning scrap materials during dusk hours. This practice poses significant environmental and health risks due to the toxic fumes released, endangering nearby residents and athletes using the stadium.

Police have urged citizens to report any similar illegal scrapyard activities and have reminded scrap dealers and business operators to adhere to environmental regulations and legal waste disposal protocols.

Authorities have assured that municipal officials and law enforcement agencies will continue monitoring and taking strict action against violators. The police have also emphasized the need for public cooperation to maintain a safe and healthy environment. Further investigations are ongoing, and necessary legal action will be taken against those involved.

KEY CONCERNS HIGHLIGHTED BY POLICE

■ Health hazards: Inhalation of toxic fumes can cause respiratory issues and other serious health conditions, especially for athletes and residents in the vicinity.

■ Public safety risks: The scrapyard's close proximity to residential areas and the stadium increases the risk of fire hazards and potential outbreaks of vector-borne diseases.

Recovery of house tax arrears dominates Benaullim gram sabha

Team Herald

MARGAO: The Benaullim gram sabha, held on Sunday, approved its annual budget for the forthcoming financial year.

However, the budget matter also saw a discussion over the pending house tax collection. While the estimated collection stood at Rs 91 lakh, the actual collection so far has been around Rs 45-47 lakh, leaving a significant gap.

During the discussion on this topic, concerns were raised about the addressing the pending shortfall.

The sarpanch assured the gram sabha that demand notices had already been issued to defaulters and that efforts were being made to recover the pending dues. He added that they are actively working to complete the recovery process and ensure the estimated target is met.

On another topic, it may be recalled that the gram sabha in during its meeting on November 24, 2024 had taken a resolution urging the panchayat to take up carrying capacity of the village before it could think of issuing construction licences for multi-housing projects. It was also resolved that the Panchayat should also write to the Government that no technical clearances should be issued for housing projects of more than four units before the Carrying Capacity study is completed.

Coldem-Navelim residents demand speed breakers, threaten road blockade

Team Herald

MARGAO: Residents of Coldem-Navelim, located just metres away from the Belem traffic junction, staged a protest near a road underpass, demanding the immediate installation of speed breakers on the service road. The protesters issued a seven-day ultimatum to authorities, warning of a road blockade if their demand is not met.

The residents highlighted that the Coldem road has become increasingly accident-prone, with several accidents reported over the past two months. "We have witnessed multiple accidents on this road recently. Despite our repeated pleas, the authorities have failed to install speed breakers or even signboards to alert motorists to halt before taking turns. Are they waiting for a fatal accident to happen before taking action?" questioned the agitated residents.

Frustrated by the lack of response, the community has threatened to block the road if speed breakers are not installed within the next week.

While locals tried calling the local MLA and the PWD engineer in vain during the protest, they also lamented that despite having sent letters to the Navelim and Telaulim panchayat, no action had been taken.

They gave examples of accidents that have injured local residents and added that when they asked the authorities to put speed breakers, they were told that they did not obtain permission from the RTO and other departments.

Besides the demand for speed breakers on four sides after removing the rumblers, they have also asked for huge 'Compulsory Stop' signs at the junctions, to make traffic halt at the crossing, as well as convex mirrors to improve visibility at blind turns.

Meanwhile, after a wait of nearly three months, the Belem traffic junction in Navelim has finally received much-needed traffic signage. The PWD and National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) installed the signboards, marking the Margao Western bypass as open for traffic heading to North Goa. The bypass was inaugurated on December 23, 2024, but the absence of proper signage had led to confusion and traffic mismanagement.

Colvale cops crackdown on illegal tenants, scrapyard violations

Team Herald

COLVALE: A security and compliance drive carried out by the Colvale Police has revealed multiple legal violations, with illegal tenants and scrapyard irregularities coming to light in areas spanning from Camurlim to Colvale.

Led by Police Inspector Vijay Rane, the operation focused on ensuring that tenants had valid documentation and that scrapyards were adhering to legal regulations. The initiative was undertaken as part of a broader effort to maintain law and order and prevent illegal activities in the region.

During the verification process in Camurlim, officers discovered that while 14 individuals had valid documents, 12 tenants were residing without proper paperwork.

Authorities have reiterated the importance of tenant verification, urging landlords to maintain accurate records and comply with legal residency requirements. Officials warn that failure to follow proper documentation processes could lead to legal consequences for both landlords and tenants.

Alongside tenant verification, police also conducted scrapyard inspections in the area. The results were concerning, with 38 scrapyard owners found to be in violation of Section 152 BNSS. These cases have been escalated to the Deputy Collector for further action.

The police have assured that such operations will continue, as part of a sustained strategy to enforce regulations and enhance public safety. Authorities are urging both residents and business owners to ensure compliance with legal requirements to avoid penalties and further scrutiny.
