

Solution can't be far if there is dialogue: Justice Gavai on Manipur ethnic conflict

PTI, IMPHAL: Supreme Court judge, Justice B R Gavai, on Sunday asserted that all problems can be solved through constitutional means, stressing that when dialogue takes place, the solution is well within reach.

Justice Gavai, who led a team of five Supreme Court judges on a two-day visit to Manipur since Saturday, said that the delegation has learnt that everyone in the ethnic strife-torn state wants restoration of peace and that nobody is interested in continuing the present situation.

"Everything can be solved through constitutional means. If there is dialogue, the solution will not be far. People staying in relief camps want to return to their homes. I am sure that with the efforts of the governor, peace and normalcy would soon be restored in Manipur," he said, while addressing a function to mark the 12th anniversary of the establishment of the Manipur High Court.

Justice Gavai said it was
