Navelkars seek justice for accident victim, protest outside Margao PS

Want police to file chargesheet against accused; visit PWD office, demanding the installation of speed breakers on accident-prone service roads

Team Herald

MARGAO: A protest was held outside the Margao Police Station on Tuesday by Navelim residents demanding justice for Philip Pereira, who lost his life in a road accident at Nagmode junction last month.

This is not the first time locals have taken to the streets over the case. At Tuesday's demonstration, residents criticised the police for delays and questioned their handling of the investigation.

Philip's widow, children, and elderly mother stood alongside villagers, expressing outrage over the car involved in the accident being returned to 19-year-old accused Rohan Rebello, who has since been allowed to fly to London.

Protestors said an alcohol test was not conducted until people from Navelim intervened, and demanded that police file the chargesheet without further delay. Philip died after his two-wheeler was hit by a four-wheeler allegedly driven in a rash and negligent manner by Rebello. The protestors accused the authorities of failing the family and vowed to keep up the pressure until accountability is ensured.

Earlier in the day, the villagers of

The victim's widow seeking justice

Navelim visited the PWD office to press for urgent road safety measures at Coldem. They submitted a memorandum demanding the installation of speed breakers on the accident-prone service roads. The visit followed an earlier protest in Coldem, where villagers had issued a seven-day ultimatum and threatened to block the road if their demands went unmet. Residents said multiple accidents had occurred due to the absence of speed breakers, signage, and visibility around blind spots. They criticised the authorities for inaction and for citing pending permissions as an excuse while lives remain at risk.

A constable allegedly boarded the victim's two-wheeler and directed him to proceed to the Old Goa Police Station. Once near the station, the officer reportedly demanded payment to 'settle' the matter, threatening that the official penalty could go up to Rs 13,000 under the revised Motor Vehicle Rules.

The constable is said to have initially demanded Rs 5,000 but eventually accepted Rs 2,000 after negotiation. The victim had to call a friend to arrange the money. The entire episode was reportedly caught on CCTV.

Waqf Act: SC LENS ON CONTENTIOUS PROVISIONS

After hearing solicitor general Tushar Mehta for the Centre and senior lawyers including Kapil Sibal, Rajeev Dhavan, Abhishek Singhvi, C U Singh for Muslim bodies and individual petitioners, the CJI proposed to issue the notice and to pass an interim order, saying it will "balance the equities".

Observing some provisions could have 'grave ramifications', particularly those that potentially undermine judicially recognised waqf properties, the CJI proposed the order.

"The properties declared as waqfs by the courts should not be de-notified, whether they are by waqf-by-user or waqf by deed while the court is hearing the challenge to the Waqf Amendment Act 2025," the CJI proposed.

The bench also hinted to stay a provision of the amended law, which says a waqf property will not be treated as waqf during the inquiry of the collector to decide if the property is a government land.

"All members of waqf boards and the central waqf council must be Muslims, except the ex-officio members," the CJI said.

The bench took note of the provision-wise objections to the Act and expressed reservations on several aspects of the legislation, including the inclusion of non-Muslims in the central waqf council and state waqf boards.

It also objected to empowering district collectors to adjudicate disputes related to waqf properties and the provisions allowing de-notification of properties declared as waqf by competent courts.

"Ordinarily, courts do not interfere at the admission stage when a law is passed. But this case may warrant an exception. If a property declared as waqf by user is denotified, it can have grave ramifications," the CJI said.

The bench, which did not issue a formal notice as of now, said it would not consider staying the law at the present stage.

The apex court questioned Mehta on how "waqf by user" could be disallowed as many would not have requisite documents to get such waqfs registered.

"Waqf by user" refers to a practice where a property is recognised as a religious or charitable endowment (waqf) based on its long-term, uninterrupted use for such purposes, even if there isn't a formal, written declaration of waqf by the owner.

The amended provision states, "Provided that the existing waqf by user properties registered on or before the commencement of the Waqf (Amendment) Act, 2025 as waqf by user will remain as waqf properties except that the property, wholly or in part, is in dispute or is a government property".

The bench during the hearing asked, "How will you register such waqfs by user? What documents will they have? It will lead to undoing something. Yes, there is some misuse. But there are genuine ones also. I have gone through privy council judgments also. Waqf by user is recognised. If you undo it then it will be a problem. Legislature cannot declare a judgment, order or decree as void. You can only take the basis."

Mehta submitted there was a large section of Muslims who did not want to be governed by the Waqf Act.

The bench then asked Mehta, "Are you saying that from now on you will allow Muslims to be part of the Hindu endowment boards? Say it openly." When a public trust was declared to be a waqf 100 or 200 years ago, it couldn't suddenly be taken over by the waqf board and declared otherwise, it added.

"You cannot rewrite the past," the bench said.

Mehta said a joint parliamentary committee had 38 sittings and examined 98.2 lakh memorandums before Parliament's both houses passed the law. The CJI wanted the parties to address the court on whether a high court could hear the matter and asked for the crux of their prayers. "We are not saying there is any bar on SC in hearing, deciding pleas against the law," he said.

Senior advocate Abhishek Singhvi, who represented some of the petitioners, submitted that Waqf Act would have all India ramifications and pleas should not be referred to the high court.

The Centre notified the Waqf (Amendment) Act, 2025, which received assent of President on April 5.

WILL MUSLIMS BE ALLOWED TO BE PART OF HINDU TRUSTS: SC ASKS CENTRE

The bench, however, said under the new Act, only eight of the 22 members of the Central Waqf Council would be Muslims.

"If eight are Muslims, two may be judges" who might not be Muslims. That leaves a majority of non-Muslims. How is this consistent with the religious character of the institution?" the bench asked.

The tensions briefly escalated when the law officer appeared to question the neutrality of the all-Hindu judicial bench.

"When we sit here, we shed our personal identities. For us, all parties are equal before the law. That comparison is entirely misplaced," the bench said.

"Why not allow non-Hindus in the advisory boards of Hindu temples, then?" it asked.

REMOVAL OF SPEED BREAKERS ON JUNCTIONS RESULTING IN ACCIDENTS: CURTI LOCALS

PONDA: Curti locals are concerned over the increasing number of accidents following the removal of speed breakers on service road junctions.

On Wednesday morning, a motorcycle pilot Tulshidas Naik (50) from Chirputem was seriously injured at the Nagzar Curti-Goa Dairy Junction when a four-wheeler travelling on the service road collided with his motorcycle. The accident occurred when Naik was passing from the underpass and took a right turn onto the service road. The impact was such that Naik sustained leg fractures.

Expressing their concerns, social workers Sherli Dias and Shrikant Naik said that the recent removal of speed breakers during hot mix carpeting is causing the vehicles to speed on the service roads, resulting in accidents.

They also pointed out that the four-lane widening project poses a threat to locals due to the absence of proper signboards and speed breakers.

Shrikant Naik has demanded the immediate restoration of speed breakers to prevent accidents in future. Additionally, the sign boards indicating speed breakers at the Nagzar Goa Dairy junction are in poor state, with some facing the wrong direction, exacerbating the problem.
