

Lee Jae-myung nominated as South Korea's opposition presidential candidate

AP, SEOUL: Lee Jae-myung, a liberal who wants greater economic parity in South Korea and warmer ties with North Korea, became the main opposition party's presidential candidate on Sunday, solidifying his position as front-runner to succeed recently ousted conservative President Yoon Suk Yeol. The former Democratic Party chief had led the opposition-controlled parliament's impeachment of Yoon over the imposition of martial law in December. The country's Constitutional Court formally dismissed Yoon earlier this month, prompting a snap presidential election on June 3 to find a new president.

In a nationally televised announcement, the Democratic Party announced Lee won its presidential nomination with nearly 90 per cent of the votes cast during the primary that ended Sunday, defeating two competitors. "Now, the people and our party colleagues gave me an opportunity to win back presidency and build a new, real Republic of Korea. Thank you! I'll humbly uphold that ardent, serious order," Lee said in a victory speech, as his supporters shouted his name.

Lee, 60, who served as the governor of South Korea's most populous Gyeonggi province and a mayor of Seongnam city, is the clear favourite to win the election. In a Gallup Korea poll released on Friday, 38 per cent of respondents chose Lee as their preferred choice, while all other aspirants obtained single-digit ratings.

Gaza health ministry reports 51 deaths from Israeli strikes, raising war toll to 52,000

Gaza Strip shows smoke plumes rising following explosions inside the Palestinian territory

AP, DEIR AL-BALAH: Hospitals in the Gaza Strip received the remains of 51 Palestinians killed in Israeli airstrikes in the past 24 hours, the local Health Ministry said Sunday, bringing the Palestinian death toll from the 18-month-old Israel-Hamas war to 52,243. Israel ended its ceasefire with Hamas by launching a surprise bombardment on March 18, and has been carrying out daily waves of strikes. Ground forces have expanded a buffer zone and encircled the southern city of Rafah, and now control around 50 per cent of the territory.

Israel has also sealed off the territory's 2 million Palestinians from all imports, including food and medicine, for nearly 60 days. Aid groups say supplies will soon run out and that thousands of children are malnourished.

The overall death toll includes nearly 700 bodies for which the documentation process was recently completed, the ministry said in its latest update. The daily toll includes bodies retrieved from the rubble after earlier strikes.

Israeli strikes killed another 17 people after the ministry's update. Eight of them, including three children and two women, were killed in a strike on a tent in the southern city of Khan Younis, according to Nasser Hospital. A strike in the central city of Deir al-Balah killed four people, according to Al-Aqsa Martyrs Hospital, and another on a tent there killed four children and a man, the hospital said.

Israeli authorities say the renewed offensive and tightened blockade are aimed at pressuring Hamas to release hostages abducted in its Oct. 7, 2023, attack that triggered the war. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has vowed

GAZA FACES HUMANITARIAN CRISIS AS 60-DAY BLOCKADE LEAVES FAMILIES WITHOUT FOOD

Palestinians queue for a hot meal at a charity kitchen run by the United Nation's World Food Programme (WFP) at the Nuseirat refugee camp in the central Gaza Strip

AP, KHAN YOUNIS (GAZA STRIP): For nearly 60 days, no food, fuel, medicine or other item has entered the Gaza Strip, blocked by Israel. Aid groups are running out of food to distribute and markets are nearly bare. Palestinian families are left struggling to feed their children. In the sprawling tent camp outside the southern city of Khan Younis, Mariam al-Najjar and her mother-in-law emptied four cans of peas and carrots into a pot and boiled it over a wood fire. They added a little bouillon and spices. That, with a plate of rice, was the sole meal on Friday for the 11 members of their family, including six children. Among Palestinians, "Fridays are sacred," a day for large family meals of meat, stuffed vegetables or other rich traditional dishes, al-Najjar said.

to continue the war until Hamas is destroyed or disarmed and all the hostages are returned.

Hamas-led militants killed some 1,200 people, mostly civilians, in the Oct. 7 attack and took 251 people hostage. Most have since been released in ceasefire agreements or other deals.

Kathmandu teachers' protest turns violent; dozens injured in clash with police

PTI, KATHMANDU: At least seven teachers and a few policemen were injured in Kathmandu city of Nepal on Sunday as clashes erupted between the two sides during a demonstration for education reforms and a pay increase. The police used baton charges and water cannons to disperse thousands of agitating teachers who tried to break the security cordon to enter the restricted area in Nayabanshwar area of Kathmandu, an eyewitness said.

Tens of thousands of school teachers from different parts of the country, demanding reforms in school education and an increase in pay and perks, have been staging demonstrations for nearly one month in Kathmandu.

Their main demand is the passing of the School Education Bill by the parliament. Last week, Minister for Education, Science and Technology Bidya Bhattarai was forced to resign and replaced by Raghujhi Pantarai for the minister's failure to address the agitating teachers' concerns.

French mosque stabbing: Suspect still at large after killing worshipper

AP, LA GRAND COMBE: A man suspected of killing a Muslim worshipper in a mosque in the south of France was still on the run Sunday, authorities said, in an attack described by Prime Minister Francois Bayrou as Islamophobic. Both men were alone in the mosque in the former mining town of La Grand Combe on Friday when the victim was fatally stabbed. The assailant recorded the attack on his phone, and security camera footage showed him shouting insults at "Allah," which means God in Arabic, local media said.

Local prosecutor Abdelkrim Grini said Sunday that investigators are taking into account "the possibility that this was an Islamophobic act. It's the one we're working on first, but it's not the only one," he said.

"Racism and hatred based on religion will never have a place in France," French President Emmanuel Macron said. "Religious freedom is inviolable." Grini said images of the stabbing he watched as part of the investigation were "horrifying" and that police forces were working non-stop to try and arrest the suspect, with 70 investigators deployed. "We're being particularly vigilant to make sure he doesn't claim any more victims," Grini said. He added that the suspect is a man born in France in 2004, who lived in the area and did not have a criminal record.
