ical conclusion. The lady police officers concerned at each police station are tasked with several crucial steps. This includes verifying and locating the victim's native place, contacting the local police station there to ascertain their current whereabouts and the reason for their visit to Goa, and determining their marital status and personal life, including any domestic issues if married. Investigators will also explore any potential local angles, including any contact with family members in such instances. Furthermore, they will be examining any possibility of human trafficking, checking unidentified bodies in Goa and neighbouring States, and verifying mental asylums and Apna Ghar facilities.

A police officer explained that the initial motive behind a person going missing is often unclear at the time of recording the case and typically emerges later during the investigation upon their recovery.

Therefore, motive is not a factor in the current analysis. The officer further stated that once a missing woman is located, her statement is taken. In cases of family disputes, women are generally allowed to make their own decisions if they refuse to return home. Importantly, all cases involving missing minors are treated as kidnappings, and a First Information Report (FIR) is registered accordingly, the officer added.

Hazardous parking on Dhavalim-Farmagudi bypass sharp turns raises accident fears

Team Herald

PONDA: Hazardous parking on sharp curves along both sides of the Dhavalim-Farmagudi bypass is posing a serious risk of accidents, with obstructed visibility making it difficult for motorists to see oncoming vehicles.

Residents of Kavlem recently raised concerns after a car belonging to a family from Karnataka met with an accident on a sharp turn and mounted a divider. Fortunately, no one was injured in the incident.

Locals stressed that the winding nature of the Dhavalim-Farmagudi road necessitates a complete ban on truck parking, particularly at dangerous bends. Although Kavlem Panchayat has installed 'No Parking' signboards at sharp curves, truck drivers continue to ignore them and leave their vehicles along the roadside.

Builder told to execute sale deed in favour of buyer for delay

Real estate body directs builder to pay 11% interest of Rs 90 lakh deposited by buyer towards a row house

Team Herald

PANJIM: Goa Real Estate Regulatory Authority (RERA) member Vincent D'Silva has directed the builder to execute a sale deed in favour of the buyer and to pay interest at 11 per cent for delay on the amount of Rs 90 lakh deposited by the buyer towards a row house within 60 days from the date of the order.

The developer has been directed to pay Rs 5 lakh to the complainant as penalty under Section 61 of the Act for violation of Section 17 and Section 18 of RERA Act and also to pay costs of Rs 1 lakh to the complainant.

The respondent builder is also directed to file a compliance report of the order within 60 days failing which legal action will be initiated by the Authority under RERA Act for the execution of the order.

Lakshmansandra Vasudevamurthy Ravi of Bengaluru had purchased a row house at Varca in Salcete taluka and had registered an agreement for sale with the developer. He said that the developer had failed to execute the sale deed in favour of the complainant qua the said premises even after receiving the entire sale consideration amount of Rs 90 lakh from him.

The complainant alleged that the developer constructed a sub-standard approach road and failed to register with Goa RERA when registration of the project was mandatory. The complainant had paid Rs 90 lakh to the respondent and Rs 2.61 lakh for additional work but delayed the handing over of possession within the stipulated time.

The respondent stated that the complainant had purchased a row house in Phase II vide agreement for sale dated October 3, 2019, and that he had taken possession of the premises for fit-out in November 2019 and after completion of the fit-out signed an agreement for leave and licence dated December 22, 2021.

He further argued that since a society had been formed with the consent of tenement holders, individual sale deed cannot be executed. The respondent was in the process of executing a conveyance deed in favour of the society and the same was pending because of non-operation of the tenement holders. He claimed that the project was registered with Goa RERA in 2018. The claim of delayed possession and entitlement to statutory interest were baseless, he said.

Clarify VAT rules affecting liquor dealers, says GCCI

Team Herald

PANJIM: The Goa Chamber of Commerce and Industry (GCCI) has urged the State government to clarify VAT rules affecting liquor dealers, citing concerns with a recent Trade Circular under the Goa VAT Act, 2005.

The chamber has emphasised that incentives and discounts are standard in the liquor industry and should not attract extra taxes. The GCCI highlighted that the recent Goa GST Amendment Act effectively addressed concerns such as mitigating litigation, promoting ease of doing business, addressing long-standing tax disputes arising from past practices etc and called for a similar approach under the Goa VAT law.

The GCCI also urged that any legislative changes should apply prospectively and that longstanding past tax matters should be closed.

Heavy rains batter State, IMD issues orange alert

A man pushes his two wheeler along the flooded road in Curcholem market

UPENDRA NAIK

Team Herald

PANJIM: The State experienced heavy rainfall on Wednesday with the India Meteorological Department (IMD) issuing an orange alert for the State, effective until Thursday.

The alert indicates the likelihood of heavy to very heavy rainfall accompanied by strong winds.

A low pressure area was formed over North-west Bay of Bengal off Odisha coast and is likely to move slowly northwards and concentrate into a depression over north Bay of Bengal during the next 24 hours. However, it may not have direct impact on the rains in the State, according to the IMD.

At Curcholem, heavy rain caused severe flooding as roads were submerged causing hardships to motorists.

The continuous rainfall caused major disruptions in Curcholem as areas near Ambedkar Circle and the railway station road were waterlogged causing complete road blockages and halting movement of traffic.

Several vehicles broke down after water entered their silencers, leaving commuters stranded in flooded streets. There were also incidents of water entering into many shops in Curcholem.

Calls grow for stray dog shelters in Ponda as roadside feeding continues

Team Herald

PONDA: In the wake of last month's fatal stray dog attack on a child at Durgabhat, Ponda, local councillors and panchayat members have raised awareness about the dangers posed by feeding stray dogs on main roads. However, despite these efforts, some residents continue to offer food to strays along busy thoroughfares, increasing the risk of accidents for commuters.

Curti-Khandepar Sarpach Nilkant Naik recently appealed to residents during a gram sabha to refrain from feeding dogs on footpaths and roads, especially avoiding raw meat which can trigger aggressive behaviour in dogs. Nevertheless, some individuals have ignored these warnings and continued to feed strays on public roads.

In response, the Ponda Municipal Council (PMC) has proposed setting up a dog shelter behind the PMC crematorium in the Bandora community.

Viraj Sapre of Ponda acknowledged the need for stray dogs to receive regular food but stressed that the responsibility lies with the PMC and panchayats in Ponda Taluka to establish a dedicated shelter at the earliest. "Stray dogs chase people on the road when they remain hungry," he said.

Sapre pointed out that the Ponda Sub District Hospital has recorded an average of around 80 dog bite cases each month over several years. He urged the PMC and all 19 panchayats in the taluka to construct shelters so dog lovers can show compassion in a safe and structured manner.

"Whenever stray dogs don't have food on the road, they chase commuters and pedestrians and often bite them," he said. He also highlighted the problem of raw meat waste being dumped on roadsides, which is making the dogs more aggressive. "Proper disposal of chicken and meat waste is essential to prevent dog bite cases," he added.

Sapre further noted that there are 18 stray dogs and puppies in his own residential building. He called for effective sterilisation measures to control the stray dog population.
