PANJIM: A hill-cutting activity near Marutigad in Mala, Panjim, has raised public outcry, prompting the Corporation of the City of Panaji (CCP) Mayor Rohit Monserrate and local residents to visit the site on Friday.

The individuals behind the illegal activity reportedly aimed to create easier access to the main road from their residence, constructing a makeshift pathway on government property. Residents voiced serious concerns about the environmental consequences and safety risks associated with the excavation.

Upon receiving the information, Mayor Rohit Monserrate, Deputy Mayor Sanjeev Naik, and ward councillor Aditi Chopdekar rushed to the location.

Monserrate stated that the landowner was illegally carrying out land-filling on property belonging to the Government of India. "The CCP had previously issued a show cause notice and a stop-work order to the owner, both of which were ignored," said Monserrate. The Mayor immediately instructed CCP staff to verify whether illegalities had been committed and whether the previous orders had been defied. "They can do such activities elsewhere, but not in Panjim. People will not tolerate it. The CCP will also follow its procedure," Monserrate said.

MARGAO: Amid growing speculation of a cabinet reshuffle in Goa, Assembly Speaker Ramesh Tawadkar has chosen to remain non-committal on the issue, stating that any decision regarding changes in the cabinet lies solely with the Chief Minister and the ruling party.

Speaking to the media, Tawadkar said, "It is for the Chief Minister and the party leadership to decide. I have no comments on the matter." His statement comes at a time when political circles are abuzz with rumours of possible changes in ministerial portfolios.

Tawadkar also addressed concerns regarding the functioning of departments previously under his charge, particularly the Tribal Welfare Department. He maintained that none of his projects or departmental responsibilities are pending.

"All work has been carried out efficiently. Regular follow-ups with officials have ensured that there are no delays," he said.

When asked about the recent statements made by Art and Culture Minister Govind Gaude at a

His guarded comments suggest a cautious approach amid the fluid political situation in the state. Sodiem-Siolim villagers oppose proposed 25-metre road

Team Herald

SIOLIM: The Siodem-Sodiem Village Development Committee (VDC), Village Biodiversity Management Committee (BMC) have strongly opposed the proposed 25-metre-wide Major District Road (MDR) through their village, warning of a serious agitation if the government proceeds with the plan.

Temper flared at the joint meeting of the VDC and BMC, convened by the Siodem-Sodiem panchayat, where the members unanimously condemned the proposal and asked the panchayat to stop playing to Centre's destructive projects and demanded that they stand for village welfare and posterity.

VDC Chairperson Mohit Chodankar accused the local panchayat and State government of aligning with the Centre's alleged strategy of systematically destroying Goan villages. "These proposed projects are detrimental to the interests, livelihood and survival of locals," he said.

BMC Chairperson stressed that a 25-metre road in a village like Sodiem was unnecessary and would result in the demolition of homes, temples, and other places of worship. "If people are evicted from the village, for whom are such wide roads being built?" he questioned.

He also condemned the panchayat for remaining a "mute spectator" to what he described as "monstrous plans" and demanded a response from the body.

In response, Sarpanch Deepa Pednekar and panch member Nishan Kalangutkar pledged full support to the villagers' cause, stating they were even willing to resign from their posts if necessary.

Sensing frayed tempers, all seven panchas unanimously demanded that the panchayat oppose the road project outright and support a people's agitation, including road blockades akin to the Bhoma protest. They stressed that the panchayat must convey the people's voice to higher authorities and take a firm stand.

The Chairperson pointed to the earlier Tillari project, which he said had already destroyed Sodiem's hills and fields.

Deputy Sarpanch Nilesh Vaingankar also opposed the plan, suggesting that if the government was so intent on building the road, it should look for an alternative route that does not run through residential areas. "What is the logic behind such a wide road in a small village? It will lead to the destruction of our homes and erase the identity of the village," he added.

Cong blasts govt over power, water crisis in Porvorim

Team Herald

PANJIM: The Goa Pradesh Congress Committee (GPCC) has come down heavily on the BJP-led State government for what it termed a "complete administrative failure" after residents of Pundalik Nagar in Porvorim were left without electricity and water for over 12 hours on Thursday.

GPCC Media Department Chairman Amarnath Panjikar condemned the government's handling of the situation, calling it a reflection of "Stone Age governance." He said, "It is disgraceful that in 2025, residents of Porvorim—just minutes from the capital—are forced to suffer without water and electricity for over half a day. The BJP government is quick to make tall claims of development, but where is the basic infrastructure? Where is the accountability?"

Power supply, initially expected to be restored by 9 am on Friday, was delayed further with officials later shifting the timeline to 3 pm. Electricity was eventually restored around 1 pm. According to the Electricity Department, the disruption was due to transformer damage.

Panjikar slammed the department's "casual attitude" and the lack of contingency planning. "This incident has exposed the sheer lack of preparedness of the government," he said.

The Congress party demanded the immediate restoration of power and water services in the affected area, a detailed investigation into the repeated transformer failures, and improved maintenance protocols. It also called on the government to issue a public apology to residents for the inconvenience caused.

"Residents deserve better than broken promises, shifting deadlines, and administrative negligence," Panjikar added.
